A WORD FROM THE MANAGEMENT

Our modern world has no more graphic means of presenting its ideas than through the medium of radio. It is only fitting, therefore, that such a means should be used by THE TIGER staff to portray the living picture of the school year at Cohn High.

SENIOR CLASS

THESE ARE THE SENIORS

Few of the dignified seniors of 1948 like to remember Tuesday morning, September 8, 1942. We had all graduated from neighboring grammar schools—Sylvan Park, Cockrill, and Park Avenue—and felt very big. Soon this illusion vanished completely. The feeling of smallness in the enormity of the Cohn School auditorium cannot be explained easily. We were assigned homerooms and ordered to come back the next day.

On Wednesday our life as low sevens began. The main problems we had were finding our classrooms and keeping out of the way of the older students. We were very timid children and looked at the seniors in fear. We were all afraid they would see us do something wrong and render deathly punishment upon us.

We completed our first year and began our eighth-grade studies. The thrill of this second year was the junior basketball tournaments. We were allowed to get out of our sixth and seventh period classes for two days, and very few of our class members neglected this opportunity.

Our graduation from junior high school will always be remembered in the history of our class. On Friday morning, June 8, 1945, we marched onto the stage and received our diplomas from Mr. A. K. Smithson. At this time Mr. Rochelle encouraged us to go on with our education and not to accept this as completion. Several of our class members left us then to take up technical training at Hume-Fogg.

Our sophomore year presented something new at Cohn. We were the first sophomore class to organize and raise money. Billy Jaynes was elected president; Robert Bruce, vice-president; and Sue Jordan and Dottie Russell as secretary and treasurer, respectively. Miss Friel served as our sponsor, and under her expert guidance we gave a reception for the seniors in the library after graduation. We got a taste of the work ahead of us as juniors when we presented a variety show in the auditorium and a party in the gym. This was the first year our football team won the Interscholastic League trophy. We were especially proud of our president, Billy Jaynes, who was outstanding in the backfield.

When we came back to school in the fall of 1946, we felt the tingle of being juniors. Robert Bruce was elected president, and he was assisted by Malvern Rahrer, vice-president; Sue Jordan, secretary; Jane Wright, treasurer; and William Raby, sergeant at arms. Before the year was over, William left for the Army, and his office remained unfilled for the rest of the year. Miss Sullivan was elected our sponsor, and she struggled with us through the year. These officers led the class in their quest for money.

Early in the fall we ordered our rings and waited impatiently until they came in May. But we had plenty to do while waiting—variety shows, gym parties, selling cokes, popularity contests—anything to raise money for the Prom. The date was set for Friday night, May 23, and the Maxwell House Hotel was selected as the site of the gala affair.

Once again the football team won the Interscholastic trophy. At the beginning of the spring term five members of our class—Billy Linebaugh, Bobbie Jean Redmond, Jane Wright, Marie Giles, and Juanita Gibbons—were elected to membership in the National Honor Society.

Finally the eventful night arrived after a day of decorations and confusion. We could tell that it was a success by the passing looks on the faces of the skeptical seniors. This ended our junior activities, and we looked forward to our senior year.

We began our final year by electing new officers. Robert Bruce was re-elected president, with Billy Jaynes as vice-president; Milbrey Mattox, secretary; Billy Linebaugh, treasurer; and Robert Hendrickson, sergeant at arms. A new office was added this year, and Carl Owen was elected chaplain. Miss Sullivan and Miss Hetherington were elected as our sponsors.

Once again we had the privilege of starting something new. Student participation in the government of the school was put into effect, and our classmate, Billy Jaynes, was elected speaker of the house or president of the student body. Milbrey Mattox was elected congressional clerk, second highest officer. Our speaker appointed Carl Owen to serve as chaplain for the congress; and Gay Satterwhite, Jean Allen, Robert Bruce, and Billy Linebaugh represented the senior homeroom. Betty Ann Hooper and Bill Hawkins served as congressmen from the D. O. room.

The history of our class would not be complete without a fitting tribute to Mr. Anderson, under whose leadership and understanding the Cohn Tigers retired the Banner Interscholastic League Trophy by winning it for three years straight, thus giving us the championship. The senior class is very proud of Maxie Runion and Billy Jaynes, co-captains of the team, as well as other senior boys, who worked hard for their victories.

The year progressed until it was nearly over before we were to face the reality of graduation with the coming of our cards. May 19 was selected as Class Day, and we busily made plans for it. We all loaded on the big busses and were off for a day of fun.

A highlight of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom. It was held May 21 at the Maxwell House Hotel. The dinner and dance were enjoyed and appreciated by all of the seniors, because we remembered the work we had gone through the year before.

Rehearsals which preceded graduation were for Miss Sullivan and Miss Hetherington headaches and worries. But no one was any prouder of us than they were when we marched down the aisle on Friday, June 4, to receive our diplomas. There were tears in our eyes as we left the stage, for we had come to the parting of the ways and we were going on—each to live his own separate life.

JANE WRIGHT,
Historian.

PROPHECY

Being the day before Senior Day, I decided to relax and enjoy a game of golf. As I was sitting on the bench waiting my turn to tee off, I noticed a feathery dandelion dancing in the breeze. The white seeds reminded me of our class grouped closely together, and as the wind blew them away one by one over the greens and traps I realized that our fellow classmates would be separated by our professions and duties in life in the same way.

As the first tiny seed passed by it burst into a gay, brightly colored spectacle which, to my profound amazement, seemed to be a carnival. Wonderingly I gazed at the many colored tents and the glittering lights and costumes. All at once familiar voices came through the hustle and bustle of the happy crowd. My eyes suddenly became fixed upon a tall man talking rapidly through a small microphone. Robert Bruce was urging the people to come in and see the fearless jungle king and lion tamer in action. This was none other than Malvern Rahrer, the Tarzan of this day. As the people made a mad rush to the entrance I happened to notice the ticket seller. He was a bright-faced, redheaded chap whom I finally recognized as Carl Owen. I sauntered along, and as my gaze moved upward I saw the most daring exhibition ever performed on the high wires. There, swinging in the air, were two of my classmates, Louie Davidson and Dorothy Baird. Louie was standing on his head on this slender pole with no net, and Dorothy was swinging by her teeth.

As this scene passed from my view, I found myself seated in a huge football stadium. The preliminary game was between the only two girls' teams in the world. One of these was composed entirely of former Cohn students. As I read their positions from end to end, they were: Left end, Helen Seagraves; left tackle, Ann Burrum; left guard, Willie Mai Hargis; center, Pauline Martin; right guard, Betty Payne; right tackle, Hazel Kirby; right end, Dorothy Dotson. The backfield was composed of Sue Armstrong, tailback; Betty Jo Sanders, fullback; Betty Hooper, blocking back; Jean Crandall; wingback. They won easily over the opposing team, ninety-nine to two. The feature game was between two teams picked from all-time "greats." Through snatches of conversation around me I learned that those two stalwarts who made history when we were in high school were members of this star-studded squad. I hurriedly glanced at my program, and there in black letters they were — Maxie Runion and Billy Jaynes, each with a star by his name. Neither of them made an entrance until the late stages of the game. Finally I glanced up and saw them making a brilliant dash down the field. Maxie was carrying a water bucket, and Jaynie was loaded down with nice white towels and a first-aid kit.

I pushed my way to the exit of the stadium, and there, standing in the late afternoon sunlight, were Billy Whitson and T. G. Ross, selling the pennants and colors of the two teams.

After this passed from sight, I found myself on a busy street of a thriving metropolis. One particular shop on this street caught my eye. It was a tiny place, but business was good, I surmised, from the endless stream of customers. The sign particularly interested me as I noticed the names, ALLEN, RUSSELL AND PHELAN, advertising "Togs for Tiny Tots."

Upon inquiring into this business, I found that four of their best customers were Mesdames Zola Law, Doris Mimms, Bobbie Jean Smith, and Dorothy Frazer, who had by now settled down to married life, and each had several children.

In the background my gaze followed and settled upon a huge billboard with three familiar faces. They were Sue Jordan, Emily Seigrist, and Arleen Huss. Under these well-known smiles was a little ditty, "Don't die; try a pie and sigh." Of course it was an ad for Siegrist's pies.

At a little distance up the street was a huge department store under the proprietorship of Ann Dodd, Gay Satterwhite, and Milbrey Mattox. They owned a chain of stores from New York to San Francisco. Through them I learned that Jane Wright was a fashion editor with the company and was in Paris at the time speculating on the latest fashions. Also in the employment of this company were Beverly Harris, Barbara Holland, Bobbie Jewel House, and Marjorie Ridley as buyers and secretaries. Other Cohnites served as models in the various stores across the country. They were Nell Dyer, Alice Locker, and Marie Lawrence, all of whom were very successful.

As this passed out of my sight small scenes danced swiftly through my mind.

Robert Adair had sucessfully succeeded Mr. Carter and had brought about the outlawing of the use of tobacco in Tennessee. His chief enemies in this fight to make Tennessee tobaccoless were "Blackjack" Bob Hendrickson and "Badeye" Bill Lashlee. These two had set up a hugh tobacco business by running tobacco from the "smoky states" into Tennessee.

Bobby Chance was the owner of a chain of garages throughout the South.

Malcolm Cart and Jimmy Moseley had a new method of delivering papers on many routes at the same time. They used autogyros for quick delivery.

Faye Bruce was a second Madam Curie and had discovered many new drugs which aided medical science.

Juanita Gibbons and Marie Giles were tellers in the well-known Bank of New York.

Betty Lawrence, Patricia Glassford, and Nancy McCrary had pursued the teaching profession. Betty and Patricia were teaching at their old Alma Mater, Cohn, and Nancy was a member of the Vanderbilt faculty.

Jimmy Almons and Bill Hawkins now owned their own funeral home and had proven to be successful students of mortuary science.

Johnny Horn owned a small stand on Fifth Avenue, and he performed his feats of magic for passers-by.

Arnold Dugan and Donald Hamilton owned a chain of grocery stores which equaled the well-known A. and P. Stores.

Emma Mai Ackerman and Mary Frank Hewitt owned a pet shop in a small southern town. They sold everything from alligators to kangaroos.

Marion Troxel ran a beauty salon in the Waldorf-Astoria. Her manicurist was Dorothy Durham.

The scene changes here and we find Mary Gassaway and Elise Huff raising chickens on a huge ranch in the midwest.

Milton Johnson and James (Rassy) Sanders owned a Pan-American trucking line.

John Turner was the great poet of his day. His name was sure to go down in history.

Billy Mattox owned a horse ranch in Wyoming.

Martin Moseley was a musician in one of the popular bands of the time, and Billy Linebaugh was a chemical engineer in our own home town.

Just then I heard my name called, stepped up on the tee, and lined my ball two hundred and fifty yards down the middle.

BILLY LASHLEE,
Prophet.

"PAPPA IS ALL" — comedy in three acts — is the story of a Pennsylvania family who live on a farm. Mr. Aukamp, the father (Robert Bruce) rules his family with an "iron hand." He dictates to his son Jake (Carl Owen), and daughter Emma (Gay Satterwhite), and his meek and gentle wife (Clarice Toombs).

His family revolts in the end, causing a terrific climax.

Others in the cast were Alfred Turman and Loretta Overby.

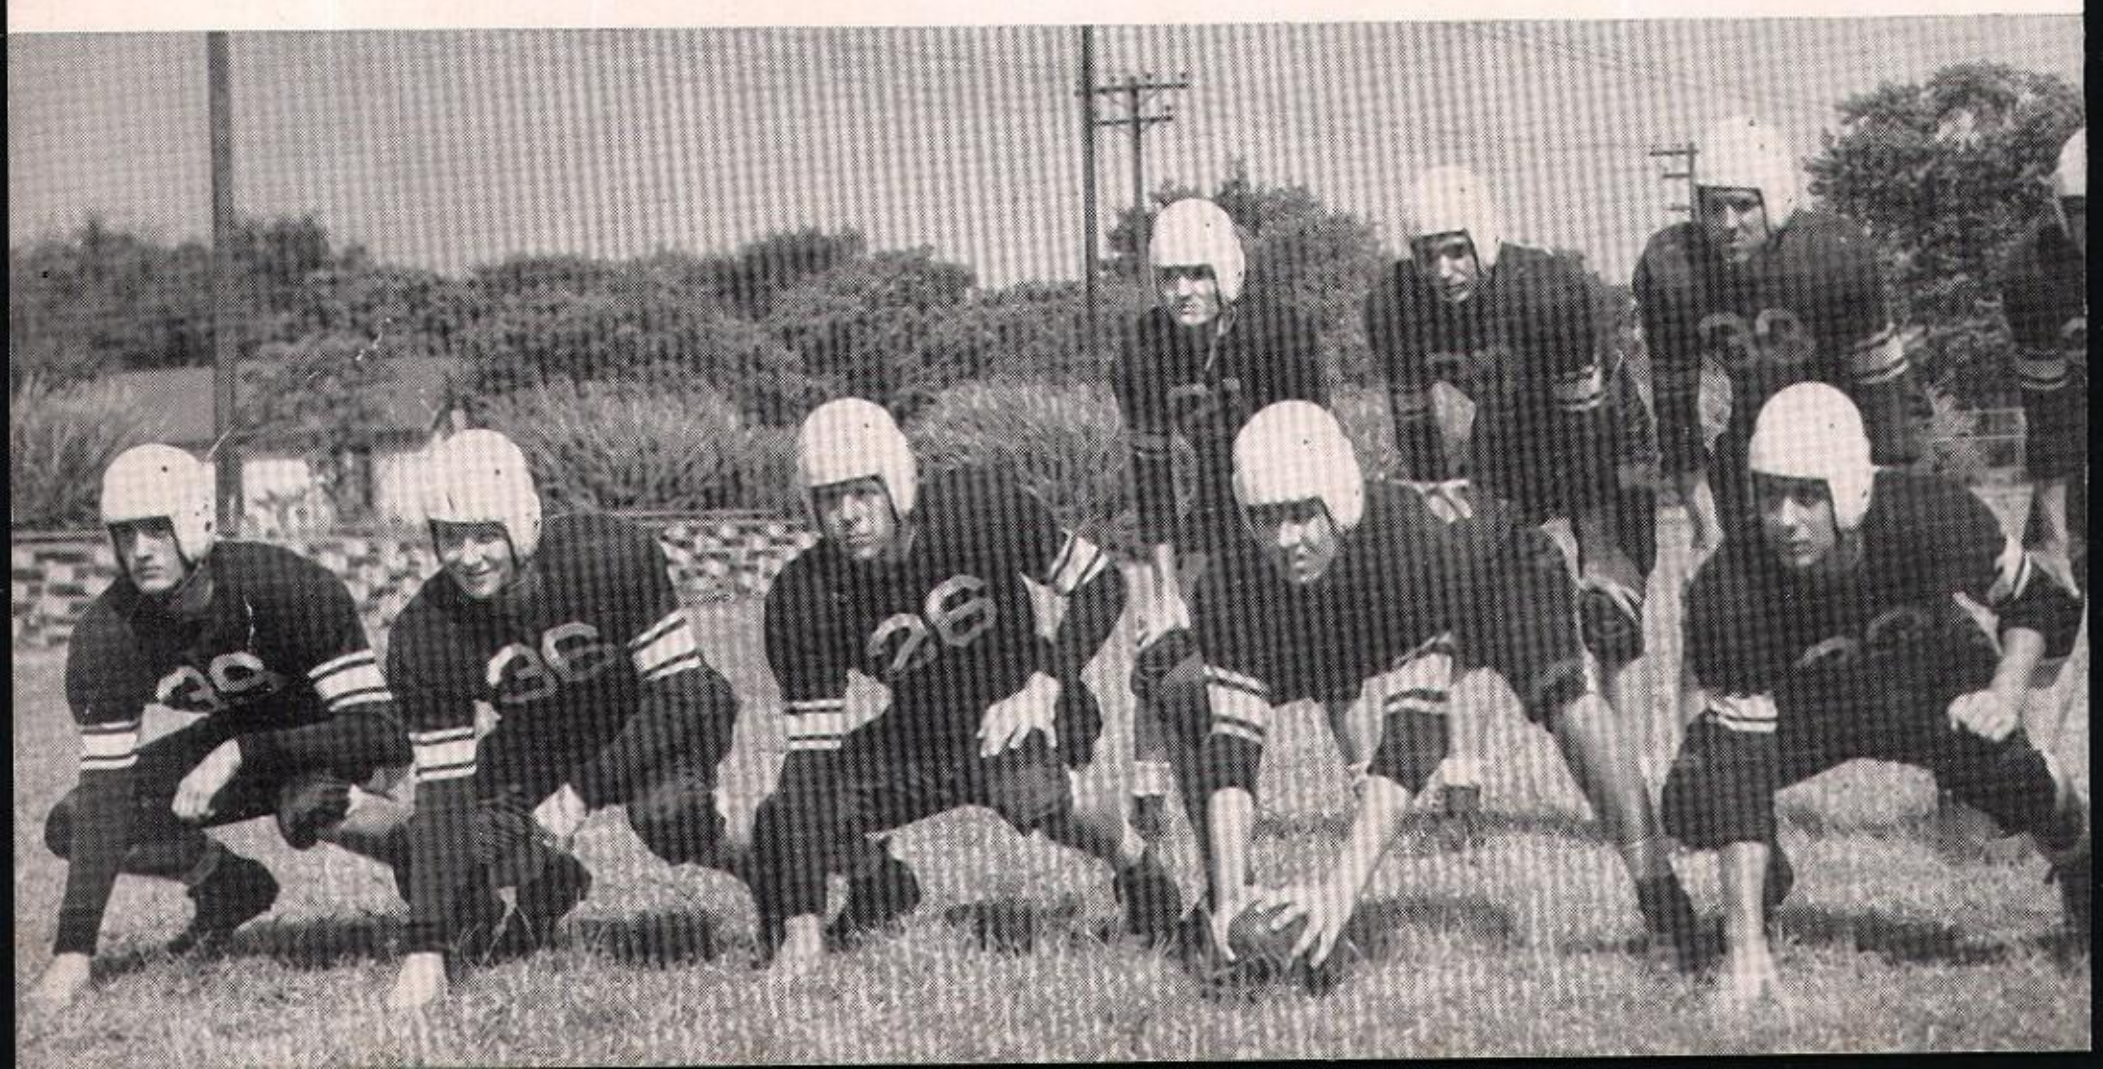
ATHLETICS

THE TIGERS OF



By JOHN BIBB

Nashville Tennessean Sports Writer
Cohn Class of 1944

Continuing to hold the upper hand in the Interscholastic Football League, Cohn's Tigers sykrocketed to their third consecutive championship in 1947, an accomplishment unparalleled in the history of Nashville high school athletics.

The wounded Tigers, licking injuries suffered throughout the school's infancy, challenged the best teams in the city and state last year, and they lost only one game in ten encounters.

Screaming up from the limbo of the league's lower division under the expert guidance of Coach Elbert Anderson, with a foursome of talented backfield performers, and boasting seven of the league's most feared linemen, Cohn fielded what many observers believed to be the best starting eleven ever to don the black and white gridiron regalia.

And from the opening game it was evident that the Tigers' bid for their second "all-clear" campaign in history would be the most difficult task ever undertaken by a Cohn High athletic organization. Every school on the Tiger's schedule longed to become the first team in more than three years to whip the vaunted 'Cats in a regular season contest.

However, the Tiger team withstood every local challenge, and only a senior-studded eleven from Knoxville Central High School managed to solve the Interscholastic League terrors for a victory. After a week of heavy rains, Cohn's Sikes Field became a quagmire of mud, and the Tigers' narrow thirteen to seven defeat has been attributed to the inclement weather factor as much as anything.

Father Ryan, unquestinably the Tigers' most heated rival. was the first local team to test the mettle of the two-time defending champions. Playing before a throng estimated at more than 5,000, Cohn turned back the Irish thirteen to six to keep intact their record of never having lost to the Ryan Panthers.

Churning over opponents in a methodical fashion, the Tigers unleashed the full fury of their well-oiled football machine and exploded with one-sided victories over West, North, Hume-Fogg Tech, East, Donelson, Howard, and Bellevue before the Knox Central invasion.

The championship in the bag, Cohn toyed with the once violent Central Tornado in the season's final. The Tigers clipped the bitter South Nashville opponent nineteen to nothing as Maxie Runion battled his way into Central's end zone for three touchdowns – a fitting climax to one of the league's most brilliant individual careers.

At the conclusion of the season, awards fairly rained about the collective heads of the Tigers. Runion and Harold (Goober) Chambers were awarded positions on both All-City teams. Maxie was further selected as a member of the All-State and All-Southern squads, and both Runion and Chamber were picked as candidates for the William Hume Award. Maxie places second in the closest balloting in the history of the annual presentation.

Runion and Billy Jaynes, tabbed Cohn's counterpart of West Point's famous "Blanchard and Davis" combination, cast their lots for further education and athletic conquest with the University of Tennessee's Volunteers. The two senior candidates chose U. T. over a host of Southeastern and Southwestern Conference schools, preferring to battel S. E. C. foes alongside – rather than against – former Cohn Teammate J. B. Proctor.

Surely the 1848 Cohn eleven will tackle an even more unwelcome job than faced last year's three-time champions; but win, lose, or draw, whenever a Cohn team takes the field, there'll be those who will point with pride to the 1947 team. Its spirit was all a coach or fan could desire, its talent was unsurpassed, and its championship caliber of play brought record-shattering glory to the school.

The boys' basketball squad had only one returning regular from last year's team, but it made up for this handicap with a fighting spirit. With only one regular returning from last year's crack team, Coach Anderson was faced with the big job of rebuilding the team.

The nucleus of the new team was Billy Jaynes, the returning regular. Around him the team was built with such fine ball players as Robert Bruce, Grant Sadler, T. G. Ross, Billy Lashlee, and Robert Hendrickson. With these boys and the rest of the squad, the team is one to be watched.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Coach "Pop" Brown, with only one regular returning from last year's Eighth District Championship team, was faced at the beginning of the season with an inexperienced group of girls. Jo Ann Richardson, who had been voted most valuable in last year's tournament, and such girls as Treva Oakley, Clarice Toombs, Nellie Chisam, Emma Mai Ackerman, and Ruth Lancaster made up the new team. These girls are linking hard practice with a fighting spirit and are in there playing their hearts out for "Dear Ole Cohn."

BASEBALL

When the baseball season rolled around at Cohn in the Spring of 1947, it found the baseball team ready and raring to go. Bolstered by such returnees as Maxie Runion, Louie Davidson, Billy Jaynes, and Dan Terry, and with the addition of John Crocker and a few others, Cohn was rated one of the top teams in the league. During the season they proved their claim to this rating by their fine all-around play, being strong at bat and flawless in the field. They ended up winning seven and losing four games.

This Spring of 1948 all of the team except Runion, Terry, Davidson, and Johnny Horn return. Cohn is again looking forward to another successful baseball campaign.

GOLF

With Bryant Liggett and "Chuck" Sullivan returning from last year's second place team, Cohn's golf stock rose. Coach Anderson added Billy Lashlee and Tom Marshall to this duet and produced another winning golf team. With these four talented golfers, Cohn's colors were again taken through a successful campaign which saw them defeat Duncan, West, North, Lipscomb, Hume-Fogg Tech, and Hillsboro, while losing to Du Pont, Ryan, East, and M. B. A.

This year with Sullivan and Lashlee returning to bolster the team, Cohn is again expected to be well represented in golf.

ADVERTISEMENTS

"Weavers of Speech"

To you, who each day
Take on anew your tasks
Along the lines that speech will go
Through city streets or far out
Upon some mountainside
Where you have blazed a trail
And kept it clear;
To you there comes from all
Who use the wires
A tribute for a job well done.

For these are not just still
And idle strands
That stretch across a country
Vast and wide
But bearers
Of life's friendly words
And messages of high import
To people everywhere.

Not spectacular, your usual day,
Nor in the headlines
Except they be of fire,
Or storm, or flood.
Then a grateful nation
Knows the full measure
Of your skill and worth
And the fine spirit of service
Which puts truth and purpose
In this honored creed—
"The message must go through."

CLASS WILL

We, the Seniors of Cohn High School, of the City of Nashville, County of Davidson, State of Tennessee, having struggled through twelve years of a great conflict (commonly known as school), and become the pride of the school, and since our graduating is an irreplaceable loss to the aforementioned school, we wish to leave some reminders and distinguished characteristics to certain lucky ones designated in the following document. Thus we do ordain this the last will and testament of the Seniors of the Class of 1948.

FIRST: We do hereby bequeath to Miss Sullivan and Miss Hetherington our kindest regards and sincere gratitude for their never-tiring efforts to serve and guide us. We also wish to thank Miss Friel for her patience and fortitude as our sophomore sponsor.

SECOND: We do hereby will to Mr. W. R. Rochelle and the faculty our gratitude for their instruction and counsel.

THIRD: We do hereby will and bequeath to the junior class title of seniority, our place of honor in the auditorium, and our ability to have meetings.

FIFTH: We, as individuals, do wish to bequeath some personal characteristics to our underclassmen and other interested parties.

Emma Mai Ackerman leaves nothing to nobody in hopes that they will use it as wisely as she has.

Robert Adair wills his ability to be Mr. Carter's right-hand man to George Knight.

Jean Allen, Dorothy Russell, and Marjorie Phelan leave their disorderly locker to Doris George, Betty Fuller, and Joe Ann Neely.

Sue Armstrong wills her problems in the D. O. class to her sister, Bobbie.

Dorothy Baird leaves her ability to get through school without working and the only piano piece she knows, "In the Mood," to John Crocker.

Robert Bruce wishes to pass on the presidential "aspirings" and also his height to Richard Hunter.

Bobby Chance leaves his seat in the bandroom to David Elrod.

Jean Crandall wills her height to Donna (Shorty) Craft.

Ann Dodd wills her turquoise sweater to Wanda Lou Honeycutt.

Dorothy Dotson leaves her place as first chair trombone to Collin Dugan . . . Poor fellow!

Nelle Dyer and Betty Lawrence will their place in Mr. Carter's fifth period mechanical drawing class to Norma Jean Hooper and Betty Leigh, respectively.

Dorothy Frazer leaves her ability to get married to Joan Owen.

Juanita Gibbons leaves her dirty saddle oxfords to Bobbye Draughon.

Marie Giles wills her most precious book, "Two Easy Methods of Reducing," to Bobbye Draughon.

Donald Hamilton leaves his ability to drive an automobile safely to Roy Lee Hutchinson.

Willie Mai Hargis and Patricia Glassford leave a cleaver and chain to Miss Moskovitz, so she will not have a difficult time in the future separating friends.

Beverly Harris, Barbara Holland, and Bobbie House bequeath their gym suit to anyone in the junior class who is big enough to wear it.

Bill Hawkins leaves his title, "Mad Mortician," to anyone who would like to have it. He is quitting the business because it is too dead.

Robert Hendrickson and Billy Lashlee will their sense of humor and ability to make a joke out of anything to "Hot" Grimes and Richard Hunter.

Mary Frank Hewitt leaves her ability to tell jokes to Jimmie Seagraves.

Betty Hooper wills the constant teasing showered on her by Mr. Carter to Joyce Rains.

Elise Huff wills her place in the D. O. room to Gail Rader.

Arlyne Huss wills her cheerleading uniform to Melba Glass.

Billy Jaynes leaves all his loud shirts to Mr. Carter, so that he can scare all the crows out of his corn field.

Sue Jordan wills her place in the Ensemble, her ability to cheerlead, and her blue ruffled dress to Jean McKliney.

Hazel Kirby wills her old reliable comb to Colleen Lawson.

Betty Jo Korn leaves her skill (?) in typing to Robert Morrison.

Zola Law wills her violent temper to Miss Morrison.

Marie Lawrence leaves her bashfulness to her sister, Elizabeth, provided she leaves enough for Marie to use.

Billy Linebaugh leaves his superb athletic ability to Robert Mills.

Alice Locker wills her D. O. folder, along with all her problems, to Faye Bracey, as she can probably find good use for them.

Billy Mattox wills his ability to flatter Miss Morrison to anybody that needs it.

Milbrey Mattox wills her debate folder back to Charles Schuman, the giver, that he might bestow it upon the unlucky person who takes her place on the debate team.

Nancy McCrary leaves her place in the typing room to Mary Leigh.

Doris Mimms would will Ann Burrum to Dean Carrick to get through school; but since she may need her later, she will just wish Dean good luck!

Martin Mosley leaves his aptness for chemistry to Lewis Moore.

Carl Owen wills his acting and speaking ability to Alfred Thurman.

Malvern Rahrer wills his place in the best seat, in the best room, with the best teacher, Mr. Anderson, to Walter Gillespie.

Nellie Ramsey wills her ability in typing to anyone who needs it.

Marjorie Ridley leaves her little feet to Mary Anne Ridley.

T. G. Ross wills his ability to get along with Mr. Carter to nobody, since nobody can.

Maxie Runion leaves his place in Miss Friel's heart to Chuck Sullivan, whom he trusts will treasure it as he did.

Gay Satterwhite wills her place in the very wonderful Sub Deb Sorority to Betty Bowling.

Helen Seagraves leaves her love of food to Norma Jean Hooper.

Emily Siegrist wills to Joanne Richardson her basketball tights, which Betty Perkerson gave Christine Fleming, Christine willed to Jo Ann Runion, and Jo willed her last year, with the hope that she will cherish and pass them on next year.

Bobbie Jean Smith leaves her place in Mr. Carter's seventh period history class to Ramona Watkins.

Marian Troxel wills her place before the band to Joan Neely.

John Turner leaves his elaborate introductions in speech class to William Earnest Sadler, Esq. (He needs something in his speeches.)

Jane Wright wills Doris George her blonde hair.

Pauline Martin wills her seat in the D. O. room to her sister, Louise.

Arnold Dugan leaves anything to nobody and nothing to anybody.

Louie Davidson wills his witty ways to anyone that wants them.

James Sanders just leaves.

Miss Sullivan and Miss Hetherington leave their sympathy for the next senior sponsor.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF: We hereunto subscribe our names and affix our seal this the Nineteenth Day of May, in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-Eight.
